The image contains a grid with elements labeled as `q(A)`. Each cell in the grid appears to represent a value, with black and white squares indicating different states or values. The pattern and arrangement of the squares suggest a specific representation or data layout.